Nazis Trying To High-Pressure Turkey

Fair Enough by WESTBROOK PEGLER

William Green, that stout friend and willing defender of the gangster in union movement or racket, has responded again on behalf of hoodlum in a union of the American Federation of Labor, this time at the intention of the so-called Hod-Carriers' union, an organization of government-protected extortionists. This meeting, the first since 1911, is now present in St. Louis under the presidency of Joseph Victor Moreschi, who for was elected to that office or any other national office of the union by the vote of the members of the locals. The entire present list of national officials, only one Achilles Persion. The secretary-treasurer, ever was elected to any national office by the members or the locals. His term would have expired 25 years ago but for the fact that the constitution provides for elections only at the national convention, of which this year's is the first in 20 years.

In describing Green as a stout friend and unfailing defender of the gangster in the union movement, I remind you that he endorsed as a man of good character a white slaver who was the chief racketeer of one of Green's worst pals and an open associate of notorious criminals; that Green also endorsed Gangster George Browne, the president of the Stage and Movie Employes' union, with whom he sits in the cabinet or executive council of the A. F. L., and that in a famous St. Louis case he upheld a band of criminals who were persecuting the rank and file and repudiated the victims of their vicious exploitation.

I call attention also to the fact that the general council of the A. F. L., Joseph Padway, appointed by Green, was general counsel of Gangster Browne's union and that Padway accepted $1,000 from George Scalise, the man whose good character Green certified, ostensibly as payment for legal service in revising the constitution of Scalise's union. That constitution, in the revised condition is at once a ludicrous travesty and an evil writ. Padway admits that he got the $1,000 from Scalise and that he, too, certified to the department of justice that Scalise was a man of good character in an effort to obtain a presidential pardon for a man who was

BULGARIAN KING REPORTED GOING TO MEET HITLER

Visit Believed To Be Prelude To Declaring War On Russia

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria is en route to a meeting with Adolf Hitler, the British broadcasting reported today, adding that "this visit was reported to be a prelude to declaring war on Russia." NBC and CBS transcribed the broadcast.

NBC credited the report to sources in Ankara, Turkish capital, where Bulgaria's stand, seen by some observers as a threat to Turkey, has caused keen interest.

However, authoritative quarters in Ankara expressed the opinion that such a meeting was out of the question.

The text of the first BBC broadcast, as taken down by CBS, follows:

"Reports from Ankara say that King Boris of Bulgaria is on his way to visit Hitler.

"He is said to be accompanied by army chiefs and it is added that among those at the conference will be Joachim Ribbentrop, General von Brauchitsch, Admiral Raeder and von Papen, the ambassador to Turkey.

"The conference is said to have been called in anticipation of an imminent future of Russo-Bulgarian diplomatic relations.

"These Ankara reports are not confirmed in London."

A later BBC rendition of the report added that the visit was regarded as a step toward a Bulgarian declaration of war.

None of the prospective conferees, Franz von Papen, it has been reported directly from Ankara, is in Berlin, discussing Turkey's position in the war.

The conferees, as listed in the BBC broadcast report, would represent both the land and sea commands of the German armed forces. Field Marshal General Walther von Brauchitsch is the commander-in-chief, and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder is chief of the naval command. Joachim von Ribbentrop is the German foreign minister.

SNOW FALLS IN SEVERAL STATES

(By Associated Press)

Rocky mountain points today reported the season's nearest approach to real winter time while coastal and interior storms brought unsettled weather to many other sections of the country.

There was extensive snowfall in northern Wyoming, Colorado and as far south as Denver, and temperatures were mostly in the 30s from Washington and Oregon down over most of Canada and Idaho.

Ahead of the Rocky mountain storm, high temperatures were considerably lower, maximums yesterday included Davenport 90, Des Moines 85, Sioux City 82, Omaha 88, Concordia 92, Chicago 82, Fort Wayne 95, Cincinnati 88, Louisville 90, Memphis 87, Knoxville 83 and Atlanta 81.

New Mexico looked for additional snow storms after mountain cloudbursts knocked off Albuquerque's natural gas supply. Normal service was gradually being restored but most of Albuquerque's 70,000 residents went without hot meals and baths during the week-end.

BULGARIA MAY BE MADE CLUB OVER ANKARA

Sofia Fails To Explain Why Country Virtually Under Martial Law

IRAN ATTACK HINTED

Some Believe Germany May Transfer Offensive To That Nation

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Warlike preparations in axis-aligned Bulgaria were interpreted by some neutral observers today as part of a German plan to high-pressure non-belligerent Turkey into making concessions which would aid the Nazi cause in the east.

Such a plan would be the logical sequel to the swift German drive into the Ukraine, which has made it imperative that the Nazis take steps to protect their right flank against the possibility of attack from any quarter, these sources said.

Dispatches from Ankara indicated that the German eastward push, as well as developments in Bulgaria, were causing keen anxiety among the Turks, and well-informed sources there were quoted as expressing belief that Turkey faced an imminent showdown.

Belief Germany might be using Bulgaria as a lever against Turkey was intensified by the fact that advices from Sofia failed to give specific reasons for the adoption of measures which virtually put the country under martial law during the week-end.

Some circles suggested the measures might have been taken in anticipation of trouble with Russia but the Bulgarian government has denied strongly having any aggressive intentions against the Soviet.

Well-informed sources in Ankara said German leaders apparently were divided in their viewpoints regarding Turkey.

One group, it was said, held that Turkey never would participate in or permit any aggressive action against Europe across her territory, and for that reason the German flank was secure.

Another group, however, was said to feel that no chances should be taken and that the German armies could not continue their drive toward the

CAPTIVE MINE STRIKE ENDED

Men Agree To Return To Work On Board's Recommendation

(By Associated Press)

Back-to-work whistles blew today for 44,000 striking employes of captive mines, and officers of most of the unions involved in a Pennsylvania anthracite strike asked their followers to return to their jobs.

The employes of captive mines—pits in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky supplying fuel for major steel companies—agreed to resume work on the basis of recommendations by the national defense mediation board. The mines have been idle a week.

The board's recommendations called for no work stoppage for 30 days, or thereafter until either side has given three days' written notice. Meanwhile, the mediation board will attempt to settle the controversy, which arose over the demand of the United Mine Workers for a union shop contract in the captive pits.

Officers of 38 of 42 U. M. W. A. locals in district seven, where 20,000 hard coal diggers have been idle almost two weeks in protest against increased union dues and assessments voted yesterday (Sunday) to return to work and submit their grievances to a commission to be named by International President John L. Lewis.

The officers voted 126 to 1 in favor of the proposal and arranged to ask their local memberships to ratify the action today.

An insurgent group, however, ignored their plea and scheduled a march into adjoining district nine in an effort to spread the walkout. The insurgents, meeting at Freeland, Pa., announced they would return to work only if union dues were limited to $14 a year and if the national labor

MOSCOW EVACUEES TO BE KEPT OUT

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Moscow city council issued a decree today prohibiting the return to the capital of all who have left the city since the German invasion.

The council issued orders that those who return despite the edict not be registered as residents of Moscow and receive no food cards.

VICHY FEARFUL ALL OF FRANCE TO BE OCCUPIED

Believe This May Result If Sabotage And Shootings Continue

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Authoritative sources declared here today that some elements in Vichy fear that all France may be occupied if shootings and sabotage attributed to Communist elements persist in the German-occupied zone.

Marshal Petain's appeal yesterday against saboteurs in the occupied area these sources said, was important primarily as an appeal for French unity against the danger of grave new difficulties with the German army.

Petain, it was believed, hoped to put himself forward as a symbol of unity in order to keep France in her present status until the war is decided.

A vow in the name of the German army delivered at the bier of a captain killed by terrorists in Paris to "employ every means that these attacks, which cause indignation in all honorable men, shall not go unpunished," was disclosed today in the Paris press.

The fact that the slain officer a Captain Scheben, was given an official funeral yesterday at Madeleine church in the center of the occupied capital, indicated that the Germans attached considerable importance to the attack.

Otto Abetz and Fernand de Brinon, German and French envoys at Paris, respectively, and the German army command were represented at the services.

The announcement said Scheben was the victim of a "cowardly attack last Tuesday."

"Twelve hostages already have been shot for the death last Wednesday of a German non-commissioned officer attacked two days before."

A blunt threat to use German guns and troops swiftly and forcefully against any organized attempt at revolution hung ominously over occupied France.

Accompanied by a party of friends and a time keeper who followed him in an automobile, Morton covered the distance in six to 10-mile stretches followed by 15-minute rest periods.

FIRE CHIEFS OPEN ONE-DAY MEETING HERE

Gathering Precedes Beginning Of State Firemen's Convention Tuesday

MANY TO STAY OVER

Constable Scott Of London, England, Scheduled To Address Body

As final plans were completed for the opening of the convention of the Louisiana State Firemen's association here Tuesday, the one-day session of the Southwest Association of Fire Chiefs began at the Virginia hotel Monday morning. With a registration of about 50 fire chiefs from cities in four of the five states in the Southwest association, the fire chiefs began their meeting after a delay due to the late arrival of some of the members, caused by the heavy maneuver traffic on state highways.

Chief J. C. McEachern of the Haynesville fire department, president of the Southwest association, presided during the short morning session. The called meeting, he said, was scheduled to end late Monday afternoon, but may run into Monday night. Scheduled to address the session were Constable Scott, fire marshal of London, England; H. B. Fletcher of the New Orleans office of the federal bureau of investigation, and Jay Stevens, executive secretary of the International Association of Fire Chiefs and California state fire marshal.

The Southwest association is composed of fire chiefs from cities in Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Representatives from all states in the association, with the exception of New Mexico, were present at the meeting here. The election of officers of the fire chiefs' group was expected to take place late Monday.

Many of the fire chiefs are expected to stay here for the three-day convention of the Louisiana State Firemen's association, Chief McEachern, who also is a member of the state group, said.

The state gathering of firemen, their 36th annual event, will open at the Virginia hotel Tuesday morning with registration and collection of dues from 9 a.m. until 12 noon. President

JAPAN ON FENCE REGARDING WAR

Which Way Nation Turns Depends On Nazi, Russian Developments

HONOLULU, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Japan is on the fence in the Anglo-Russian-axis struggle and which way she finally turns depends on developments on the Soviet-German front, in the opinion of well informed persons arriving from Shanghai.

Requesting anonymity because they wish eventually to return to the orient, these persons declared militarists still are firmly in the saddle in Tokyo despite Emperor Hirohito's assuming control of the army. Army leaders are unwilling to surrender control of the nation's policy despite the danger of war with Russia and Great Britain, they said.

Living conditions in Tokyo were described as the worst in decades and rapidly becoming unbearable for Americans. Sometimes fresh vegetables cannot be obtained for days at a time because, due to price fixing,

TERRY YOUTH IS KILLED BY AUTO

OAK GROVE, La., Sept. 22.—(Special)—Jim McAllester, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McAllester, of Terry, near here, was instantly killed when struck by a car driven by Joe Franklin of Kilbourne, shortly after dark Sunday night.

The young man was walking on highway No. 16 near his home and was proceeding southward. In attempting to go around a cattle truck, northbound, he was struck by the northbound Franklin car, the headlights of which are believed to have blinded young McAllester.

The coroner, who made an investigation of the case, reported that the accident was unavoidable.

McAllester's body is at a funeral home at Oak Grove pending the completion of arrangements.

He is survived by his parents and the following brothers and sisters: James A. and J. P. McAllester, of Terry, La.; George McAllester, of Bridgeport, Ala.; Mrs. J. J. Sanders, of Oak Grove; Mrs. Vici Case, of Bridgeport, Ala.; and Mrs. Merline McCullough, Prescott, Ark.

ERROL FLYNN IN FISTICUFF WITH JIMMIE FIDLER

Attributes Bloody Ear To Poke With Fork By Foe's Wife

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Most night club battles are bloodless. A couple of futile swings, then a lot of people rush in to part the principals.

This is seldom difficult, since usually there's plenty of room between them for people to rush in.

That Hollywood's latest fistic fillip early Sunday was different apparently was not the fault of either principal—He Man-Actor Errol Flynn or Gossip Columnist Jimmie Fidler, just back in town after testifying in Washington before a senate committee investigating movie propaganda.

Most accounts credited Flynn with striking two blows (whether slaps or socks was disputed); and Fidler with none. Yet Flynn came off with a gouged ear dripping blood.

He said diminutive, dark-haired Bobbie Fidler did the damage with a fork, adding.

"But she made the very grave social error of using the wrong fork."

Mrs. Fidler coldly denied the accusation.

Flynn, chatting while his ear received the cold water treatment, said he took exception to certain of the columnist's statements about the movies.

"Fidler has told one too many lies about the motion picture business," the Irish actor blustered. "That's why I went up to his table and told him what I thought about him. I put my left fist up against his chin and gave

KAY WEBER WEDS, KILLED SAME DAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Yesterday was Kay Weber's wedding day.

Today plans were being made for her funeral.

This tragic shift from happiness to sorrow came last night less than nine hours after her marriage when, Police Lieutenant Joseph Murrin said, she was shot to death in her honeymoon apartment by a disappointed suitor who took his own life.

Murrin related these events leading up to the tragedy:

Two men—Lee Sherman, 24, and Ronold Toft, 35, were rivals for the affections of the 26-year-old divorcee. Sherman won yesterday when he and Mrs. Weber drove to Dubuque, Ia., where they were married.

When they returned to Sherman's home they learned that Toft had tried to asphyxiate himself at the bride's basement apartment.

The newlyweds agreed to see the disappointed man at the apartment where Toft, after looking at the marriage license, congratulated the couple, smiled and left.

Fifteen minutes later Mrs. Sherman walked into the dining room. A shot rang out and she fell to the floor, a fatal bullet in her head.

Outside in an areaway near a window into the dining room they found the body of Toft. A .22 caliber rifle lay nearby.

STORM IN GULF GAINING SPEED, NEARING COAST

500,000 Troops In Louisiana Area Affected By Disturbance

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A tropical hurricane in the middle of the Gulf of Mexico, which has caused strong tides and forced lowland residents on the Louisiana coast to seek safety, swung westward today and picked up speed, headed for the direction of the lower Texas coast.

The weather bureau's 8:45 a.m., central standard time, advisory reported that the tropical disturbance "has turned westward moving rather rapidly at 17 miles per hour a little north of west in the last 6 hours and was central at 6 a.m., central standard time, about 325 miles south of Lake Charles, La., and about the same distance east of Brownsville, Tex.

The bureau reported the storm was attended probably by hurricane winds near the center and said precautions should be taken immediately on the Texas and Louisiana coasts against gale winds tonight and Tuesday and against rising tides becoming very high near and to the right of the storm path.

"The present movement of the center is toward the Texas coast north of Brownsville, Tex.," the bureau said.

Approximately 500,000 troops in western central Louisiana were in the area affected by the disturbance, but were believed in no danger unless the storm swings due north. Today the storm was 500 miles south of the troop concentration.

The 8:45 a.m., central standard time, weather bureau advisory said:

"Advisory 8:45 a.m., central standard time: Northeast storm warnings

WORK ON ANOTHER TAX BILL STARTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The ink of President Roosevelt's signature on the record $3,553,400,000 tax bill was still fresh today as legislative leaders started work on another new revenue measure.

The chief executive signed the biggest-in-history tax bill at his Hyde Park home Saturday. His final pen stroke meant much higher taxes on 1941 incomes—both personal and corporative, and it put on the law books, effective October 1, a lot of new or increased excise levies, applying to a legion of things from liquor to light bulbs.

But treasury and congressional experts did not decide to mark time; they went to work immediately on a new revenue measure.

Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the Senate finance committee said today the new legislation would be of minor proportions compared with the bill just enacted and probably would raise only $200,000,000 to $250,000,000.

Most of that expected revenue, he added, would come from a re-definition of taxes on insurance companies and from some change in the present community property system.

LIFE IN CITY 'ANTI-SOCIAL'

People Too Crowded Draw Heads Into Shells Like Turtles

By Stephen J. McDonough

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The anti-social effects of city living is beginning to drive people farther and farther away from the big centers of population.

Dr. Ernest W. Burgess of the University of Chicago declared today the effect of living too close together is a "subversive" influence on society because people act like turtles, draw their heads within their shells, become anti-social and adopt a cynical attitude toward their neighbors and life in general.

Speaking before one of the opening meetings of the university's 50th anniversary celebration, Dr. Burgess declared that to some degree the environment of city living is undermining the spirit of the American people.

A girl from the farm or a small town soon loses her spirit of friendliness and thoughtfulness for other people and becomes an elbow-pushing, rue and inconsiderate individual. Whether she is a clerk, garment worker, stenographer or executive she soon puts on her "New York face," her "Chicago face," her "San Francisco face" or any other artificial phy-

SUSPECT ROBBERY IN HEIRESS' DEATH

LOS ANGELES Sept. 22.—(AP)—A prospective motive—that of robbery—has appeared in the mysterious slaying of Mrs. Florence Stricker, heiress to more than $1,000,000, police declared today.

Pat Cooney, an investigator for the attorney of Dr. George H. Stricker, husband of Mrs. Stricker, said the woman had $2,000 in cash in her possession before she was beaten to death September 13.

Cooney said Mrs. Stricker told Harold McLean Meier, a close friend, that the money had been returned to her in a business deal and she was worried about investing it. Cooney said no trace of the sum had been found among Mrs. Stricker's accounts.

Dr. Stricker, under medical care since the killing, is to testify at an inquest Wednesday. Still in jail on suspicion of violating a law denying ex-convicts the right to possess firearms is Scenario Writer Ernest G. Booth, who was held for five days last week on suspicion of murder. Booth, a friend of Dr. Stricker, has denied knowledge of the killing.

ITALIANS SEND ASSAULT UNITS TO STRONGHOLD

Daring Attack Apparently Takes English Completely By Surprise

LENINGRAD POUNDED

Attacked 'With Such Ferocity It Seems The Earth Will Split'

(By Associated Press)

Italian "suicide crews," manning tiny secret assault boats, were reported today to have carried out a spectacular raid under the muzzles of Gibraltar's great batteries during the night, sinking three ships and badly damaging a fourth in the harbor.

Authoritative quarters in Rome said the raiding craft, each described as little more than a human projectile, were operated by men who knew there would be slight chance of returning.

The fate of the crews was not disclosed.

Aside from an Italian torpedo attack on Gibraltar shipping last year, it was the first naval assault since French and Spanish ships unsuccessfully shelled the British garrison there in the winter of 1782-83.

In describing the bold raid, the Italian high command identified the attackers merely as "assault units" which "entered the bay and inner port" of Gibraltar to sink three ships outright and damage a fourth seriously.

Authoritative London quarters met the Italian claim with "absolutely no comment."

The attack apparently took the British by complete surprise, since Gibraltar harbor, protected by moles, nets, mine fields and great guns high on the rock, had long been considered secure against close-in assault.

In the 93-day-old Russian campaign, the Germans reported that about 30 Soviet divisions—perhaps 450,000 troops—had been "annihilated" so far in a trap east of Kiev.

Four Red armies encircled there were reported struggling to blast their way out of the Nazi ring.

While the Germans asserted the beleaguered armies were tightly sealed, Moscow dispatches said they were seeking to fall back to Kharkov, in the heart of the Donets river industrial basin.

Meanwhile, war-like preparations in Bulgaria, ostensibly aimed at Turkey or Russia, were emphasized by unconfirmed reports that King Boris III of Bulgaria was en route to a meeting with Adolf Hitler.

Berlin authorities declared the report was "out of the question."

Well-informed sources in Ankara predicted that Turkey, guardian of the strategic Dardanelles, gateway between the Mediterranean and the Black sea, faced an imminent showdown.

In Berlin, the Wilhelmstrasse reported that Bulgaria had been "brought into a state of higher watchfulness," which, it was said, was not surprising in view of the reported landing of Russian parachutists on Bulgarian soil.

King Boris' reported visit to Hitler aroused speculation that Bulgaria, now almost completely mobilized, might be preparing to enter the field as an active ally of Germany.

The London radio, quoting unconfirmed Turkish advices, said Field Marshal General Walther von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the German army; Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, German naval chief, and Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop would attend the meeting.

MISSISSIPPI TO ELECT TOMORROW

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Representatives Ross Collins and Wall Doxey make their final appeals for votes tonight and less than 150,000 Mississippi voters are expected to decide tomorrow whether a civilian military expert or an agricultural fighter will for 15 months occupy the United States Senate seat for the late Pat Harrison.

In 10 of the state's counties the voters will also choose a state senator and six members of the state house of representatives, filling vacancies caused by resignations or deaths.

Collins closes his campaign tonight at Biloxi; Doxey makes his final speech from Washington via a statewide radio network from 8 to 8:30 p.m. Both left the stump on September 13 and returned to their congressional seats after President Roosevelt's "shoot on sight" speech, but Collins returned to Mississippi last Friday.

The campaigns have aroused little interest and that chiefly among voters concerned with the international situation and the rising price of cotton. A clear, sunshiny day tomorrow will mean even smaller crowds at the polls as the population of the state's cotton counties remains picking in the fields. The state's full voting strength numbers more than 300,000.

The polls open at 7 a.m. in cities that have 1,000 or more registered voters and at 8 a.m. in places that have less than that number. All precincts will close at 6 p.m.

the Fuehrer followed his inspection of Bulgarian troop maneuvers by the biggest army called to the colors in the nation's history.

Neutral observers interpreted Bulgaria's military preparations as part of a German plan to high-pressure Turkey, Britain's non-belligerent ally, into making concessions which would aid the Nazi cause in the middle east and Russia.

On the Russian-German war front, the Red army tersely acknowledged the fall of Kiev, Ukraine capital and Russia's third greatest city, but declared that a Soviet counter-offensive on the central (Moscow) front had recaptured 32 villages and driven the Germans from a strongly fortified line.

The Russians said defenders of Leningrad and Odessa, siege-girt Black sea port, were inflicting enormous casualties on the Germans as the struggle entered its fourth month.

Leningrad's position apparently was growing more critical by the hour. Soviet dispatches admitted that Nazi dive-bombers were smashing at the old czarist capital and its 3,200,000 populace with "such ferocity it seems the earth itself will split."

Moreover, the Germans reported that Nazi shore batteries had frustrated an attempt by Russian warships to flee the silenced Kronstadt island naval base, 20 miles east of Leningrad.

Stuka dive-bombers were credited by the German command with scoring direct bomb hits on the 23,016-ton Soviet battleship October Revolution, the 8,800-ton cruiser Kirov, another cruiser, three destroyers and a gunboat in the waters off Kronstadt.

German warplanes were reported to have silenced Kronstadt's guns last Friday.

Hitler's high command asserted that German troops were tightening the trap on armies east of Kiev, inflicting "heavy and bloody casualties" on Red forces desperately attempting to break out of the Nazi ring.

At sea, a special communique from the fuehrer's headquarters declared, German U-boats sank 13 heavily-laden ships totalling 82,500 tons and damaged another in an attack on two convoys and separate ships in the Atlantic.

"Three escorting vessels evaded the attack, leaving the convoy to its fate," the German high command asserted.

In the war in the air, the British reported that more than 600 R. A. F. bombers and fighters attacked Germany and German-occupied countries in a 36-hour offensive over the week-end, blasting key targets along the channel coast from France to Norway and as far east as Berlin.

Authoritative British quarters said the Germans, having captured Kiev, were probably aiming their next thrust at Rostov, at the mouth of the river Don, a port for water-borne reinforcement of isolated Crimea and a gateway to the rich Caucasus oil fields.

The German high command asserted that Nazi columns knifing across the lower Ukraine had cut off the Crimea peninsula, thereby menacing Russia's big Sebastopol naval base.

The Nazi command made these Sunday announcements:

1. A German column reached the sea of Azov, crossing the broad Dnieper river near Berislav, 35 miles from the river's mouth.

2. German assault troops captured the former Estonian islands of Oesel and Muhu, clearing sea lanes to Leningrad.

3. German soldiers encircling four Russian armies east of Kiev have captured 150,000 troops and much equipment.

For their part, the Russians said a large part of the force which defended Kiev for so many weeks was falling back to prepare defenses for Kharkov, principal city of the next apparent objective, the Donets basin.

The loss of Kiev emphasized to many Britons that Russia must have help immediately and newspapers in London set up a clamor for more aid to Russia, and that soon.

British tank-makers are doing their bit by sending the week's entire output of tanks to Russia.

Informed British sources said the British and United States missions to Russia would be on the job in Moscow shortly.

Occupied France was fearful because of a blunt threat to use German guns and troops swiftly and forcefully against any organized attempt at revolution.

Marshal Petain appealed to Frenchmen to halt attacks on Germans to save all conquered France from German reprisals.

In the Far East, Japan's Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye was reported to have sent a second message to President Roosevelt and Japanese newspapers voiced confidence that a settlement would be reached between Tokyo and Washington.

Shanghai sources said Konoye's new message contained counter-proposals to suggestions made by Mr. Roosevelt in reply to the Japanese premier's first message on August 28.

The Japan Chronicle of Kobe, controlled by the Japanese foreign office, said there was reason to hope that "even at this late hour a satisfactory agreement may be reached" between Japan and the United States as a result of conversations in Washington.

The newspaper said attempts to settle the Far East crisis amicably should be based on recognition of the fact that the United States, Britain and Japan were rivals in the Pacific.

"But it so happens," it added, "that both the United States and Britain have for some time declared they do not desire hegemony but only seek to protect Far Eastern interests."

Japanese militarists, they said, were still in the saddle in Tokyo despite Emperor Hirohito's recent action in taking over control of the army in the homeland.

In the Sino-Japanese war, now in its fifth year, a Chinese army spokesman said the Japanese had suffered fully 15,000 casualties in the big Japanese offensive launched in northern Hunan province last Wednesday.

JAPAN ON FENCE REGARDING WAR

growers can get the same prices in nearby villages as in Tokyo despite the greater cost of transportation to Tokyo.

The spy scare in Japan is "terrible." Secret police watch the movements of all Americans and all who succeed in leaving the country count themselves very lucky.

Japan does not consider she has backed down in permitting American oil tankers to pass through Japanese waters to Vladivostok, they said. She has merely allowed it as a temporary expedient.

The average Japanese believes in the traditional invincibility of the emperor and in Japan's ultimate victory regardless of what foe or combination of foes she faces.

The informants arrived here yesterday aboard the liner President Cleveland. There had been no advance notice of the ship's arrival and visitors were not permitted aboard the vessel.

KEATING PRAISES WORKERS' MORALE

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Edward Keating of Washington, editor of Labor, a railroad workers' publication, says the American people should stop worrying about the loyalty of labor in the national defense effort.

"There aren't enough Reds in the American labor movement to break up a boilermakers' picnic," he asserted in an interview. "America should thank God for the high morale of her workers."

Keating contended the effect of strikes in defense industries had been exaggerated.

He said a report by Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, showed that of 66,000,000 man days worked recently in defense industries the time lost through work stoppages amounted to 44,000 man days.

"That is less than one-tenth of one per cent."

HOSTESSES ELIMINATED

TOKYO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Hostesses are to be eliminated on planes of the Japanese Airways company, officials announced today, to provide the extra seat for passengers on their overcrowded lines.

COAST GUARD DUTY OPEN TO DRAFTEES

Chief Boatswain's Mate B. B. Rawls, of the United States Coast Guards, will be located in the lobby of the Monroe postoffice all day Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. He will be pleased to confer with young men who are interested in this branch of service.

Men registered for the draft are eligible, it is stated.

CURES OTHERS, DIES

DURANT, Okla., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Allen G. Flythe successfully treated a family of five, ill with Rocky mountain spotted fever—a rare disease in this area. Yesterday he died of it himself.

Fair Enough

even then one of the most spectacular crooks, though not necessarily the worst in the entire history of the union racket.

Addressing the St. Louis convention of the Hod-Carriers' racket, Mr. Green declared that all five million members of the A. F. L. unions, with one exception, were law-abiding men. He did not name the exception, who might have been his friend Scalise or his friend John Nick, the convicted St. Louis crook, or his friend Umbrella Mike Boyle, the convicted Chicago crook, or his friend Jack Dempsey, the renegade crooked convicted Cincinnati cop who is national secretary-treasurer of the Iron Workers, or his friend Willie Bioff, another white slaver and Capone-mob criminal, currently under indictment in New York with Gangster Browne on charges of extorting money from employes through the weapon of his union charter.

Green attempted to link the unfortunate rank-and-file victims of criminal union bosses with the crooks who prey upon them and to make it appear that an attack on the criminals is an attack on the workers and an attempt to lower their economic standards. It will be seen, however, I believe, that Green himself is one of the worst enemies of the rank-and-file member and worker in that he has persistently lent the prestige, if any, of his position to the defense and encouragement of the gangster, both by positive statement and action and by open association with and indorsement of Gangster Browne.

The St. Louis convention of the Hod-Carriers received an "account of the stewardship" of the self-elected national officers, in which the entire financial statement of this period, involving many millions of dollars, constituted only 22½ pages of widely spaced figures divided into two general columns "receipts" and "disbursements" and two paragraphs of "recapitulation." Details were not given, the explanation being that sufficient detail had been supplied from time to time in interim reports of which a typical example gives no more effective detail than the grand summation of the 30 years' "stewardship." And Green's salute to the union was delivered at the very moment when a fighting minority was being beaten off before his very eyes in an attempt to hold the election of officers according to the method specified by the constitution. The constitution says the election shall be "by secret paper ballot," but the mob in command of this army of 300,000 American toilers flouted that provision to hold, instead, an election by roll call while Green was mumbling that "dictatorship will never come to America because democratic working men will not stand for it."

Thus are "labor gains" protected by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, whose executive council includes a gangster, whose attorney general is counsel for union racketeers and whose building trades department in Washington includes Herbert Rivers, second vice-president of the licensed Moreschi group of extortioners.

siognomy which suits the environment in which she lives.

As the result of adopting such deadpan expressions the city girls lessen their chances of getting a husband and the men who adopt the same attitude toward life become rude, thoughtless, and equally unattractive to the girls, Dr. Burgess said. Many of them purposely hide behind an artificial mental barrier which they call "sophistication" but is known as "mental inertia" by sociologists.

Such cynicism and withdrawal from society, he asserted, "are subversive because they undermine and destroy the fabric or social relations which make up society," adding that whereas girls used to admire as their idol the woman who could make the best cake in the community they now confine their interests to the newest movie actress or actor and spend much of their time on dress and makeup. Then they cancel their efforts to be attractive by putting on the dead-pan mask.

"There are those who maintain that in gaining the world of the modern city, man has lost his soul," Dr. Burgess said. "To them the modern metropolis is a Frankenstein destined to destroy his creator or reduce him to a robot. There is without question some truth in this criticism.

"Transplanted to the secular city environment, people have become less sympathetic and sentimental and more sophisticated, and oftentimes disillusioned and cynical," to the detriment of the local community, society and the nation.

4 BOYS FOLLOWED BY TRIPLET GIRLS

ROCHESTER, Ind., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The William Snipes family waited a long time for girl children but when the girls showed up it was in force.

STORM IN GULF GAINING SPEED, NEARING COAST

ordered 8:45 a.m., central standard time, west of Sabine to Brownsville, Tex., and continue northeast storm warnings Apalachicola, Fla., to Sabine, Tex. Tropical disturbance has turned westward moving rather rapidly about 17 miles per hour a little north of west in the last 6 hours and was central at 6 a.m., central standard time, about 325 miles south of Lake Charles, La., and about the same distance east of Brownsville attended probably by hurricane winds near center and shifting gales to strong winds in a large area in middle and northwestern Gulf of Mexico. Caution urged shipping in storm area, and small craft should not venture into middle and northwestern gulf. Precautions should be taken immediately on Texas and Louisiana coasts against gale winds tonight and Tuesday and against rising tides becoming very high near end to right of storm path. Present movement of center is toward Texas coast north of Brownsville. More definite information in later advices."

Highways No. 11 and 90, the only roads connecting New Orleans directly with the east, were closed because of tidal waters backed over the marshes in the vicinity of Lake Pontchartrain.

High tides extended for a great distance along the coast. Gulfport, Miss., reported the water level two and a half feet above normal this morning and still rising. A 25-mile wind was blowing.

At Baton Rouge, La., high winds were reported subsiding as the disturbance veered westward.

Several hundred residents of lowlying Louisiana, many of them evacuated by the coast guard when they could not be reached by land, were sheltered in the St. Bernard parish courthouse and other safe places.

The hurricane sent hundreds of military airplanes massed in South Louisiana for the war maneuvers winging to inland fields for shelter, and the coast guard and relief agencies cooperated in bringing trappers, fishermen, oil workers and others to safe areas.

With winds of hurricane force near its center, the storm sent gales over a wide area in the northern gulf, and winds were expected to reach gale force today from St. Marks, Fla., to the West Louisiana coast. Storm warnings were displayed from St. Marks to Sabine, Tex.

Meanwhile the weather bureau at Jacksonville, Fla., reported a storm in the Atlantic had started to move in a westerly direction, with its course difficult to predict. Forecasters there said it might cause high winds north of Charleston in the Cape Hatteras section, not of hurricane force but gales of 50 to 55 miles per hour.

The New Orleans weather bureau warned of very high tides running before the gulf storm and advised persons in sections stretching from the South Louisiana coast almost to the "back door" of New Orleans on Lake Pontchartrain to evacuate to higher ground.

Hundreds of them did so, although two of three special trains sent out of New Orleans for storm refugees came back empty. Another was still in the storm area.

More than 300 refugees huddled in the St. Bernard parish (county) courthouse near here.

Water rose on many highways and several were closed.

The coast guard avacuated 145 persons from Burrwood on the Mississippi river, most of them construction workers building a naval base there.

NAME MISS WRIGHT AS VICE-PRESIDENT

The Southern Tuberculosis conference, held the past week in Asheville, N. C., adjourned after a highly successful meeting stated Miss Bernice Wright, who was a Monroe delegate. Other Louisiana delegates were Dr. Julius Wilson and Dr. A. Brown of New Orleans; also Mrs. John M. McBride, state executive secretary.

Miss Wright was honored by election as vice-president. Other officers named were Dr. A. C. Shipp, Little Rock, Ark., president; and J. P. Kranz, Nashville, Tenn., secretary-treasurer.

The next convention will be held in Memphis, Tenn., in 1942 and in Jacksonville, Fla., in 1943.

The convention was attending by 350 delegates. The 1940 convention was held in Monroe.

NEGRO IS REMOVED FROM TRAIN HERE

A wounded negro escapee from a Lincoln parish road camp was returned to Ruston Sunday night by members of the Lincoln sheriff's department, following his removal from an Illinois Central passenger train in West Monroe late Sunday afternoon by members of the West Monroe police force.

The negro, L. C. Wilson, escaped from the Lincoln road camp some time ago, Chief Jeff Caldwell of the West Monroe police said, and was shot when Lincoln sheriff's officers attempted to capture him near Simmsville Sunday.

The negro boarded the passenger train, but a search in Ruston failed to locate him, Chief Caldwell said. At the request of Lincoln officers, the train was searched in West Monroe and the negro found sitting in the negro coach, the chief said. Wilson was wounded in the left arm, Chief Caldwell said, with the bullet breaking the bone. He was held by the West Monroe police department until being turned over to the Lincoln officers.

relations board would supervise an election of new district seven officers.

The strike started September 10 in protest over an increase in monthly dues to $1.50 from the former $1, a boost applicable only to district seven and designed to aid financially distressed areas. The international assessment also was increased from $2 to $6 annually. Both dues and assessments are deducted from miners' pay by the company, under a U. M. W. A. contract.

American Federation of Labor machinists employed by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation at San Diego arranged for a strike vote today in a dispute over wages, while company officials dispatched a request for mediation to Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management.

Meanwhile, the Seafarers' International Union (A. F. L.) had intensified its strike in support of a demand for war bonuses for crews operating in West Indian Waters.

Three more ships were tied up by the strike yesterday, bringing the total of strike-bound vessels throughout the country to 19, and the union reiterated that it would strike every foreign-run ship under contract with it "as soon as it hits an American port."

At Long Island City, C. I. O. workers in the Ford Instrument company plant, engaged in manufacture of fire control equipment for the United States navy, authorized leaders to call a strike if necessary to obtain a contract satisfactory to them.

Business Today

By Paul Gesner And John Beckley

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(News-Star Special News Service)—Reports have been growing in financial quarters that the federal government is contemplating creation of a new central office which, in the name of defense, would have powers to regulate and iron out "bugs" which develop in all transportation, whether by land, water or air.

The theory behind the reports is that the interests of the defense emergency could best be served by having one central power coordinating transportation by railway, motor truck and bus, waterways, air lines and pipe lines.

The central transportation coordinating agency, some business quarters hear, would do more than merely keep all transport lines unified and working together on the combined defense and peace-time job they are tackling.

It would, in addition, check on rolling stock and equipment and see that materials and manufacturing facilities for new freight cars, passenger cars, locomotives, heavy trucks, needed pipelines and adequate airlines planes would be available, without delay, as needed.

The reports have become so persistent that in some quarters the story goes that Interstate Commerce Commission Chairman Joseph B. Eastman, a veteran transportation administrative expert, may named to handle the coordinated defense traffic job.

Railway freight loadings in the latest week totaled more than 913,000 cars, the most since 1930.

The nation's airlines, which carry a heavy schedule of passengers directly engaged in defense tasks, have had every available plane in the air on such occasions as the July 4 and Labor day holiday week-ends, and most of the companies from Friday to Monday, when week-end travel is taxing facilities, could use more ships right now.

PETER COUCH HEADS BOARD OF K. C. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Two southwesterners, both up from the ranks of railroad labor, C. Peter Couch and William N. Deramus, moved into operating control of the Kansas City Southern railway today.

Couch, formerly president of the system, was elected chairman of the board, it was announced following a meeting of this body. He succeeded his brother, the late Harvey C. Couch, of Pine Bluff, Ark., railroad and utilities magnate, who died July 30.

The office of president went to Deramus, formerly executive vice-president.

Following their election both men issued statements saying no change in the operating personnel of the road was contemplated, and that headquarters would be continued at Kansas City, Mo. Railroad circles said that headquarters and personnel changes had been discussed by some groups interested in the road.

Fifty-one-year-old Couch, who has homes at Shreveport, La., and Kansas City, started railroading as fireman on a locomotive for the Louisiana and Arkansas railway, but spent much of his business career with power companies in the southwest.

Deramus got his start in the business as a telegrapher. He is 63, and has been continuously with the K C. S.

Prenuptial Affairs Honor Miss McCrary

Charming Prenuptial Affairs Are Planned By Hostesses For Bride-Elect

Miss Peggy McCrary, who will become the bride of Mr. Allen Buie at a ceremony characterized by simplicity Sunday morning, September 28, is appearing at prenuptial courtesies in her honor, in charming trousseau models.

Unusually attractive was the beige and crimson model she wore at Mrs. John Guerriero's tea last week. The skirt was of beige corduroy and the blouse was of crimson jersey. An exquisite corsage presented by her hostess completed the smart ensemble.

Mrs. Guerriero welcomed her guests in the living room of her home with beautiful garden flowers forming a colorful background. The highlight of the evening's pleasures was the presentation of beautiful gifts of linen to Miss McCrary. The word "Linens" emblazoned in electrics designated the room set aside for the gifts. A miniature bride in full wedding regalia held blue ribbon streamers leading to the gifts hidden from view in one corner of the room.

During the conversational hour Mrs. Guerriero served a luscious confectionery course.

Considerable artistry was employed by the hostess in serving the luscious confectionery course comprising ices in the form of full blown pink roses and individual wedding cakes embossed with the names Peggy and Allen.

Miss McCrary was again showered with gifts of a miscellaneous nature when Mrs. D. Curtis Seamon entertained with a charmingly appointed coffee hour.

The gifts, attractively wrapped in pink and blue tissue, were heaped high on a flower adorned tea wagon and presented to Miss McCrary with a few appropriate remarks by the hostess.

Unwrapping the beautiful gifts was an interesting interlude.

Unwrapping the beautiful gifts was an interesting interlude.

Mrs. Seamon served her guests a variety of delicious sandwiches, beautifully embossed tea cakes and assorted sweetmeats.

Miss McCrary wore on this occasion a short, full white skirt with aquamarine blue blouse and a corsage presented to her by her hostess.

Miss McCrary motored over to Holly Ridge last week where she was the guest of Mrs. Jane Shamblin at a china shower.

On this occasion Miss McCrary received gifts of Haviland in the Concord pattern selected by her for her wedding china. Dinner plates, cups and saucers, platters and covered vegetable dishes and numerous odd pieces were noted in the collection.

The serving of delicious refreshments concluded the afternoon's courtesies.

Numerous courtesies will be extended Miss McCrary this week with her wedding on Sunday climaxing the activities.

The sincere interest of friends is centered in the approaching marriage of Dr. Arthur Merrimon Freeman, Jr., to Miss Katherine Lide of Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Lide, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin James Lide, is being extensively entertained with prenuptial affairs all of which are listed in the social calendar of the Birmingham Herald.

Dr. Freeman is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Freeman of this city.

Mr. Bill Dearth completed a week's visit in the home of Mrs. Merlie Yeager of Delhi, La., and returned last week to his home in West Virginia. Mr. Dearth acquired a wide circle of friends during his first visit in Louisiana.

The members of the Readers' Clique were hostesses to approximately fifty army officers and young ladies at an informal dance in the Episcopalian Parish house from eight until eleven o'clock on Friday evening.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. Henry Loeb, chairman of the dance committee; and Mrs. Jimmie Harbuck, president of the club. Mesdames Burl Hollis and Skeeter Morgan were in charge of the guest book. During the evening, Mesdames Mike John, X. Holt, Sidney Gill, Clay Albright, R. M. Cook, W. F. Hemler and William Ross, alternated at the refreshment table which reflected a patriotic color theme. The victory symbol was also cleverly employed in every detail.

Mr. Clay Albright, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced the dancers from the Roan School of Dancing, who entertained with a floor show. Group dancing, introduced during the evening, offered diversion.

Mrs. R. E. Major and Mrs. Bridger Thornhill served as chaperones.

Mrs. G. S. Woods, of Lampkin, La., announces the recent marriage of her daughter, Geneva, to Chester L. Couch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Couch of Swartz, Sunday, September 7th, at the Swartz First Baptist church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard J. Sweetman.

The church was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and clusters of wedding bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch are now at home to their friends in Swartz.

The Monroe assembly of the Rainbow for Girls will have their installation of officers Thursday, September 25, at 8 p.m. This special program will be open to the public and all members with their parents and friends are urged to be present.

The presiding officers will be: Installing officer, Peggy Strong; installing marshal, Julia Wilson; installing chaplain, Gloria Ray; installing musician, Mrs. Georgia Cornett.

The newly elected officers will be "Becky" Shepard, worthy advisor; Jane Shea, worthy associate advisor; Betty Carter, Charity; Martha John, Hope; Letha Willett, Faith; Elizabeth Johnson, recorder; Peggy Strong, treasurer; Nettigene Williams, chaplain; Betty Bales, drill leader; Jean Crosby, Love; Dorothy Carmena, Religion; Alice Collier, Nature; Betty Thomas, Immortality; Carolyn McQuiller, Fidelity; Clara Belle Hair, Patriotism; Mildred Skinner, Service; Nancy Rothemel, confidential observer; Anna Lee Bedwell, outer observer; Judith Roberts, choir director, Ella Louise Musset, musician.

Bill Shotwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Shotwell has recently been elected to membership on the student honor committee of Webb school, Bell Buckle, Tenn., as a representative of the junior class. Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Shotwell as well as the alumni of Webb school who live in Monroe will be interested to learn that this unusual distinction has been given to young Shotwell.

The student honor system is one of the most deeply entrenched practices in the life of the school and the students who are elected to administer the system are very carefully selected by their fellows. This results, therefore, in membership upon the committee being regarded with great respect.

Pattern

COAT LINE DRESS

The dress which looks like a coat, a major attraction of the season's new styles, is presented in pattern No. 8031. It's a wonder-worker at imparting slim lines and youthfulness to the figure. The soft bodice detailing in front is a typical "coat treatment," so is the straight panel down the front from shoulder to hem and the simple vee neckline. Make this dress as the mainstay of your fall wardrobe, in black or monotone colored crepes.

Patterns No. 8031 is in sizes 14 to 20; 40 and 42. Size 16, with 3/4 sleeves, requires 4 3/4 yards 36-inch material.

For this attractive pattern, send 15c in coin, your name, address, pattern number and size to News-Star—World Today's Pattern Service 106 7th Avenue, New York, N. Y.

YOUNG KULCKE FAMILY CITED

Given As Typical Group Occupying Soldiers' New Housing Quarters

The Daily Standard, Red Bank, N. J., in a recent issue gives an illustrated story of the family of Corporal Philip H. Kulcke, a local boy and son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Kulcke of Monroe. The occasion for the writeup is in connection with the Kulckes' moving into their new four-room home, in a federal housing project.

Views show the interior; Mrs. Kulcke taking her six-week-old daughter for a ride; and a scene in the Kulcke model kitchen.

The rental paid for this apartment is but $17.50, which includes refrigerator, gas stove and other equipment.

The newspaper story carries the following: "A typical family residing in the new development is that of 24-year-old Corporal Philip H. Kulcke, instructor attached to Company A, 15th signal service battalion, who resides in unit No. 66 with his 21-year-old wife and their six-week-old daughter, Phyllis Maxine. It was moving day for the young couple and their baby when a reporter dropped in on them. They were extremely busy arranging furniture and getting settled in their four-room home.

"The corporal is now completing his fifth year as a member of Uncle Sam's armed forces. A native of Louisiana, he was graduated in 1936 from Northeast Junior college, a branch of Louisiana State university, and immediately began service in Barksdale field, Shreveport, La.

"When he was transferred to Fort Monmouth in April, 1940, he married Marie in Bossier City and together they occupied a smal bungalow in Oceanport. Here they lived comfortably while he taught the principles of electricity at the post. Phyllis Maxine was born July 28.

"Upon completion of certain units in the Shrewsbury township project, Corporal Kulcke and his wife decided to avail themselves of the government-created opportunity of living a bit more cheaply. They pay $17.50 for rent monthly, inclusive of gas, electricity and water. The corporal draws a monthly salary of $73, and earns extra money working nights as cashier at a theater.

"This apartment, typical of the 264 others, provides ideal living quarters for a young soldier and his family. As Corporal Kulcke put it, 'It's gonna be just swell living here. We've got everything we want to make our happiness complete. It's a fine place for children. Our baby seems to approve of her new home already.'"

CALIFORNIA HAS REGULAR QUAKE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Southern California had its regular Sunday earthquake again, right on the dot, but this week's disturbance was less severe than that of September 14 which was strong enough to dislodge boulders and raise huge dust clouds in the mountains.

Yesterday's shocks—two of them around noon-time, both light—were felt generally in the Los Angeles area. Northward, at Gorman, Newhall and Bakersfield, the tremors were more severe—strong enough to break windows and knock dishes from shelves.

Now The Russian Gold, Too

Before the latest and more active phase of World War II caused attention to be riveted on military events, there was considerable concern in the United States about the fact that all the world's gold was drifting to this country. This has been obscured by the clash and roar of the Russian campaign, but it is still going on.

In fact, it is going on with a new twist, because Russia was one of the few countries which still had gold in quantity. Now Russia is turning over its gold to the United States in exchange for desperately needed war supplies.

The monetary gold stocks of the United States stood at $22,718,686,000 at the end of August, an increase of more than $44,000,000 in that month alone. The tendency for the United States to get it all continues without interruption.

Renewed assurances come from Germany that one of that country's aims is to abolish entirely the gold basis for money. This is always placed on a high moral plane, with mountings, about "delivering the world from the domination of gold," but its sincerity is about on a par with other Nazi declarations, since they have never failed to loot each conquered country of all the gold in sight. There never was enough in sight, however, so having no gold, the Nazis are against it.

Nevertheless, it must not be forgotten that wherever Nazi bayonets dominate, there the Nazi mark also dominates. Bulgaria and Serbia, which had clung to a gold basis for their money, have just been compelled to abandon it and base their currency on the Reichsmark. Croatia and Yugoslavia were recently added to the "new financial order" of the Reichsmark, which means the Germans may acquire any assets in those countries at their own price, since the relationship between their currencies and the paper mark of Germany are set by fiat and maintained by the bayonet.

This strongly suggests that the United States must do something more with its gold than sit on it. Once again we suggest that one thing to do is to distribute part of the gold obviously not needed for any conceivable monetary use among friendly countries whose trade we wish to increase and link with our own. Instead of loans and credits when we wish to buy manganese, tin or chromium or build a Pan-American road, is it not worthwhile to consider the possible effect of swapping hard gold which is in excess of our own needs, for commodities which we do need?

This would enable friendly countries to adjust their currencies to that of the United States, and help to create a "dollar" area of the world which could stand against the "phony mark area." Then, when the bayonets no longer support the mark, there will be something stable in the world to take its place.

NEW YORK—In an era of bright good looks where model agencies have replaced the pony choruses of Broadway musical shows as springboards to fortune and fame for attractive young women, it is worthwhile to pay attention to a candid examination of the modeling profession by one of its most gifted pupils. Olga Malcova, whose book, "Wanted—Girl With Glamour," is an intelligent fascinating study of what the modeling world really is.

Certainly those well-built young girls around New York today prefer jobs as models to places in the line along Broadway. Not only is the remuneration more attractive, their chances of breaking out into the world of the theater and the films are greater.

I should think this would be an excellent thing for any girl contemplating modeling as a career to digest. Miss Malcova makes it clear that modeling is one of the most exacting of professions. The work is gruelling. There are a score of do's and don'ts that must be observed. Conduct during off-hours, reputation, mannerisms, personality and tact—these make or break the individual and often spell the difference between the high salaried models and the girls who get nowhere.

Just what is the life of a New York model? . . . "She's down in the garment center, tumbling in and out out of eighty costumes a day. . . . She's in the regal atmosphere of Fifth avenue, swathed in spun gold and dream cloth. . . . She's in a designer's studio long hours of the day to inspire the skilled fingers of artists in fabric and fancy. . . . She's before a hundred cameras while 10,000 watts burn fiercely down on her from a dozen lights. . . . She's an innocent if you believe her starry-eyed frankness, a sophisticate if you catch the sweep of her haughty silhouette. . . . But to those who live in the model's room; to those whose fortunes are chartered in the agency's assignment office—she's just a wholesome girl whose feet usually hurt and who, more times than not, crawls dead tired to bed at nine.

Another point to remember, as Miss Malcova points out, is that a figure like Paulette Goddard's and a face like Hedy Lamarr's and more oomph than Ann Sheridan's isn't essential to a successful career. . . . You can be anything from size ten to 16. . . . Square shoulders are an asset. . . . If you are photogenic, so much the better. . . . Vitality, warmth, aliveness and a "feeling" for clothes are important.

Modeling falls into two broad categories, retail and wholesale. . . . When you say wholesale, you mean all manufactured clothing from foundation garments to shoes, gloves and furs. Retail means modeling millinery, corsets, sweaters and outer garments.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22.—There was more than "too much publicity" involved in the Ginger Rogers-George Montgomery breakup—to-wit, Jeanine Lehr, ex-fiancee of several European blue-bloods. . . . Irene Dunne is seriously considering a Bdwy stage offer, rehearsals to start next month. . . . Watch for fireworks between Priscilla Lane and Warners; the studio is irked because she nixed an assignment.

Have Gregory Ratoff, Loretta Young and Fredric March really pooled funds to open a movie-making plant back east? . . . Maxie Rosenbloom will plane to NY for the Louis-Nova fisticuffs. . . . Levy's (Hollywood eatery) should have consulted a dictionary before dubbing that new cocktail bar the "Baroque Room"; Webster defines "baroque" as "grotesque, in bad taste."

Mama Berle's refusal to yea or nay is confusing Milton's love for Joyce Matthews. . . . Last laff dept: Producers who once snubbed Paul Lukas and are now vying for his services, must wait—he's signed to continue stage-acting in "Watch On the Rhine" until 1943! . . . Hear the almost-ex Mrs. Van ("Philadelphia Story") Heflin is readying a court plea for more alimony.

Wotzis about storm clouds gathering over Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers? . . . Burlesquers Herbie Barris and Dorothy Darling, who scored a sensation here with a one-night p.a., are getting studio bids. . . . Aside to Sam Goldwyn: How about Johnny Mack Brown, a college baseball star, a southpaw and a swell actor, for that Lou Gehrig role?

Bells and no-bells: Bells to: Victor McLaglen, currently preaching Americanism by carrying a wallet-full of 25-cent U. S. defense stamps and passing them out in lieu of tips. . . . Kay Kyser and his bandsters, for donating three full days to the making of recordings which will be used in a North Carolina radio drive for funds to care for crippled children. . . . Red (new comedy sensation) Skelton, for invariably crediting his writer-wife whenever he's complimented on his laugh-material. . . . Jane Withers, air travel hater, who flew to and from the Milwaukee American Legion convention in order to squeeze out time for a promised benefit appearance in LA. . . . No bells to: Practical jokers who phone-barraged a local lovely, using Orson (much-in-love-with-Dolores del Rio) Welles' name to make it appear Orson was chasing her. That kind of kidding can cause heartbreaks.

The hit parade: Screen: RKO's "Suspicion." An introspective drama as intricate as your next-door neighbor's character—and just as fascinating. . . . Dis: "Keep Cool Fool" and (over) "Until the Real Thing Comes Along" (Decca). The Ink Spots blot away the blues. . . . Book: James Cain's "Mildred Pierce" (Alfred Knopf). The author of "The Postman Always Rings Twice" rings the bell again. . . . Magazine pictorial feature: "Italian Prisoners Meet English Girls" (Life). Makes you wonder who wants war, anyway. . . . Best performance: Joan Fontaine in "Suspicion." A great actress proves last year's award nomination was no flash in the pan. . . . Magazine story: Boris Karloff's "Houses I Have Haunted" (Liberty). Hollywood's favorite ghost invites you to share his ghoulish laughter. . . . Song: "Will You Still Be Mine?" No matter whose you are, your feet won't stay "still."

Quotes and comment: Fan magazine: "Censors may penalize 'Navy Blues' because of the hot dance numbers." Backfield in motion, no doubt! . . . Veronica Lake: "Anybody can be an actress, but a mother is something else again." Yeah—almost always. . . . Picture caption: "Nine out of ten American girls would give their eyeteeth to be stranded on a South Sea island with Stirling Hayden." Bet Mr. H. would prefer them with eye-teeth. . . . Gene Tierney: "I married my husband because I loved him." How excessively mid-Victorian! . . . Fan magazine: "Mary Martin tried a blonde head of hair for awhile, but soon tired of it." Lots of men have had the same experience. . . . Column: "Despite publicity phonies, few Hollywood glamour girls go in for athletics." They make up for it by going for athletes.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

TOO MUCH SCHOOL TIME WASTED

I have watched with growing concern the inroads made on the school time of the children. First there are the official interruptions that seem to be necessary. Drives of one sort or another, public appearances of the children for civic purposes which mean extra drill, time out for preparations.

Some of this is necessary and allowable, but even these ought to be scanned with watchful eye lest they grow in number and extent. Too many parades spoil the classroom routine, and upon that routine the children's progress depends.

The most inexcusable waste of school time is caused by the parties in classrooms. Birthday observances have long been a part of kindergarten routine. Froebel set them in his program and there, quite properly, they belong. But they should not be carried beyond that class. Children should be taught to grow up and leave childish things behind them, something they are proud to do.

But these parties have spread beyond the kindergarten, even beyond the elementary grades. Even high school seniors have been known to stop class work, and under the leadership of their teacher given a party in class time. I am against that idea from start to finish.

In the first place children need to make a sharp distinction between work and play. Work is tonic for children and they should take it unadulterated by any thought of fun. There is more real joy, more true happiness for a child to be found in a task well performed than he ever will get out of a classroom party shoved into the middle of a school day. The idea that school work and parties can be mixed is a poor one for children to accept.

I object to birthday parties in classrooms for another reason: The custom seems to be that the birthday child treat the group. The well-to-do mothers furnish a real spread, the less able ones, a candy treat. It is easy to see where that leads. Children are not always understanding of social situations, and the child whose treat is candy-balls feels cheap in the eyes of those who furnish ice cream and fancy cake. That feeling should not be nurtured in our schools, schools that are pledged to the education of every child, on equal terms for all.

I am against them for a third important reason: Candy and cake, even milk and crackers served during the school session are more than likely to take the edge off appetites for lunch. We say we do not want children to nibble between meals. Why give them parties in school session?

School hours are short enough, as every teacher knows. Time off for morning inspection, for caring for outer wraps and hats and overshoes and umbrellas and bags of books; time out for records, for responses to the office, for assemblies, for drives, bank day, health inspections, admission and dismissal times, rapid drills, children's needs, distribution of books and supplies for work, attention to a thousand details—and precious time can be frittered away, nobody knowing why or where.

School time is doubly precious these days. Let's have the parties and such interruption after school hours. Skipping them altogether won't hurt anybody.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—When you get right down to counting noses, President Roosevelt's cabinet has undergone more shake-ups than a penny bank. Only Secretaries Hull, Perkins and Ickes remain from the original executive round table.

Two of the appointments, those of Republicans Henry W. Stimson and Frank Knox to war and navy were departures from custom. Yet no appointees, not even those two, have been watched with such interest by official Washington as the new attorney-general Francis Biddle. The army and navy expansion programs were already set when Stimson and Knox were named, and the president named them to see that these programs were carried forward without a hitch.

But the department of justice has been dumped into Biddle's lap with more of its policies and programs at loose ends than perhaps any time in its history. What is to be the future of the drive against big business monopolies? How free a rein will big business be given to carry on the national defense effort? Will the rights of little business be vigorously protected, and how? How will the laws of the land be brought to bear on labor in the emergency?

There also is that delicate matter of drawing the fine line between the constitutional rights of the individual and the maximum protection for the nation in one of its greatest periods of stress.

Washington has its eye on the tall, spare Philadelphia aristocrat, who earned his post by being a lawyer to big corporations, a chairman of the national labor relations board, a federal district judge, solicitor-general of the United States and a loyal follower of the liberal wing of the Roosevelt clan ever since he whooped it up for Theodore R. in the Bull Moose campaign of 1912.

Fourteen years ago Francis Biddle wrote a novel called "The Llanfear Pattern." It told a story of an aristocratic young man, born to conservative society (much like himself), who set out to reform the world. At the end the novel is one of frustration, for although the young man has walked far to the left he finally finds himself back at his starting point, a victim of his own heritage. Friends say that the novel is even more autobiographical than Biddle realized, but it would be unfair to conclude at this point that Biddle's fight for liberalism has approached frustration or that he will hang his new office with the drapes of ultra-conservatism.

There are other and more important clews. He must have learned his lessons well when he was secretary to that late great liberal, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. Then, too, two of his closest friends are Justice Felix Frankfurter, who certainly never has been accused of conservatism, and "Tommy The Cork" Corcoran, the New Deal rebel, who has been bobbing around here for years.

One of Biddle's brothers is a conservative Philadelphia lawyer and another a phychiatrist—but a third is George Biddle, generally described as "the left-wing artist." When George painted that mural that covers three walls of the stair-well on the fifth floor of the Justice Building he didn't see his brother as any conservative. He saw him as the head of a family of plain people, for it is as that character that he painted his brother into the mural—the head of a family of the kind of people that Francis Biddle now is obligated to protect in his prosecution of injustice.

Probably the first clews to the Biddle policy in his new office will be in the man he appoints as assistant to the attorney-general (often called "the little attorney-general," because the post involves such vitally important matters as interpretation of policy, liaison with congress and the clearance of judicial and justice department appointments) and as solicitor-general.

It is rumored that Corcoran is after the latter post, but insiders consider it practically certain that the quiet but extremely capable Charles Fahy, new assistant solicitor-general, will get it. If he does, that still leaves "the little attorney-general" as the key to the nature of the department of justice.

First aid was demonstrated in considerable detail at St. Matthew's Parochial School yesterday afternoon by Berny Oakland, chairman of the local Red Cross life saving organization. Arrangements for the demonstration were effected by F. X. Shaughnessy.

Arrangements were effected today between Superintendent E. L. Neville of the city schools and trustees of the Grace Episcopal Church, whereby the city schools will be given permission to use the frame building on the lot located at St. John and Oak streets, formerly used by the church. This building will be at once partitioned into four school rooms and will be opened in a week's time for the use of two rooms, grades one and two. The pupils are now using the stage of the auditorium at the city school, and classes that have been taught in the basement of the same building will be removed to the church quarters now obtained.

The Huff Daland Dusters Corporation is experiencing somewhat lessened activity, as the dusting season is waning. While at times an unusually large number of planes have been impressed into service in dusting, now but two planes are so engaged, stated Lieutenant Harold Harris, in charge of operations. Of these planes, one is in cotton dusting work near Memphis, and the other is engaged in sugar cane dusting work at Plaquemine.

HONEY POT OF GOLD PROVES REAL THING

PARIS, German-occupied France, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Seventy-four-year-old Josephine Carron went to the poorhouse more than a year ago, presumably against her own better judgment, and thenceforth pestered attendants with the insistent story of a gold-filled honey pot in an orchard.

Just recently disbelieving officials of the poorhouse decided it would be good to humor her and thus shatter the "hallucination."

She took them to an orchard and unearthed a honeypot containing 5,000 old fashioned gold pieces estimated to be worth $25,000.

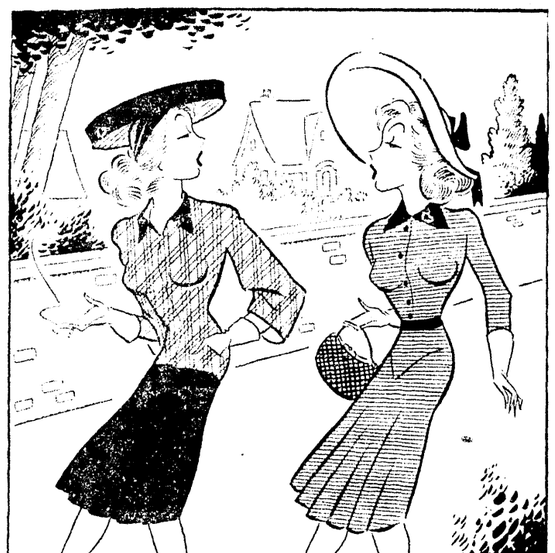
FUNNY BUSINESS



"Marie said, Meet Major Kinkstead, an officer and a gentleman"—and I could only see one man! I must have been blah!"

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM

By VIVIEN GREY

YESTERDAY: It began when his Kerry Blue terrier nuzzled Pam Quellerton on the Key West beach. Jerry knew when Pam looked inquiringly up at him that something had happened that wouldn't be forgotten soon. He has taken her to a dance, and has kissed her good night, and Pam has suddenly realized that she has broken her rule against going about with "winter men." And Jerry wonders what about Freda Barington, who wears his ring—

Chapter Five

No Release

FREDA BARINGTON had always done her swimming and her beach lazing in front of Casa Marina in the colorful atmosphere of its smart beach umbrellas and smarter patrons.

But with slacks and jacket over a bathing suit that fit her supple body with unwrinkled perfection, she walked along South Street to South Beach. She seemed to wander aimlessly along the beach, but actually she was intent on a very definite purpose. Her eyes scanned the beach. They focussed on a solitary figure. She walked with apparent casualness toward that figure sitting alone on the sand and staring out over the variegated water of the ocean.

"Would it be madness to offer you a penny for your thoughts?" she asked as she dropped down on the sand. She removed the jacket and proceeded to roll the slacks up above her knees. She turned to Jerry then.

"Well?" she asked.

"You'd lose the penny." Jerry turned a serious face to her.

"I see. Then you want to talk."

"I don't know. The fact is, Freda, I don't know what I do want or that I want anything except one thing."

"That bad?"

"Worse. And I suppose you think I'm crazy."

Freda's fingers sifted sand for a moment, and then she turned a serious and pretty face toward Jerry.

"No, I don't, Jerry. I don't blame you at all, I understand. She's lovely, really lovely. If I could find anything here as gorgeous as that I'd go on an emotional spree myself for a while."

Faint color rose under the tan of her skin. "Perhaps I should blush at admitting being so utterly human, Jerry. Perhaps it's worse than human. Perhaps wanton. Maybe it's the wanton in us. Or maybe we're just bored with things as they are? Or is it the tropical atmosphere? Anyhow, exactly what you feel for the little Conch girl, I suppose I could feel for a Conch man if I could find one as nice. It's"—she sought the right words—"like the swell of the tide out there—as natural, as impossible to quell. And just as unpredictable."

She had gone on talking, too engrossed in her own thoughts to notice that Jerry had winced, that he'd seemed to drawn into himself. When he spoke it was in a changed voice.

"But you don't understand after all, Freda," he said. "It isn't that sort of thing at all with me. Emotional spree stuff, I mean. It's real. Real enough to last all my life."

"I know," she said easily, watching a bronzed local youth walk past. "Chalk that up to the atmosphere, darling. That strangely insistent breeze that keeps flaying at you, whipping up something inside you that you can't understand yourself. A sameness about the days that makes you want to do something different, just to mark one from the other. Sometimes," she finished on a note of low laughter, "I think what we need is work."

No Flirtation

JERRY looked at her casually. "Sometimes that gadget you use for a brain does produce a thought," he said. "And, by the way, stop flirting with the local boy."

"All right, darling, I'm flirting with a local boy. So what? You are flirting with a local girl."

"It happens, Freda, I'm not flirting."

"Call it anything you want to, darling. Your romance with your island flower can't get very far as long as I wear your ring!"

She was laughing at him, but Jerry paid little attention. Something else held him.

"Island flower!" he said. "Freda, that's exactly what she is! It expresses her perfectly."

"Or Conch girl!" she exclaimed in gentle irony. "Watch your step, Jerry, or you'll have conch shells growing out of your shoulders."

"That isn't nice, Freda. And your present mood is not in the least becoming. But I could have lots worse things than conch shells fasten to me."

"All right. I'll stop. Indulge your mood for your little local girl. You'll forget her as soon as you leave the island, or sooner. I'll forgive you. I haven't a jealous hair on my head."

"Freda, don't!" There was something in his voice that brought her sharply facing him.

"Don't what?"

"Talk like that. You're trying to soil something that's too lovely to be soiled."

"Go on, darling, rave away." Freda had turned to watch the youth who'd sat down now on an overturned boat. "I'm broad-minded. At least, I can be while I'm here. As I said before, I'm wearing your ring, and you can't laugh that off very easily."

"It happens I'm not flirting," said Jerry.

Tied!

JERRY turned away. He didn't want to watch Freda's flirtation, meaningless as it might be. The youth who had been sitting on the overturned boat got up slowly and went to Duval Street to sit there on the stone wall enclosing the lawns of the southernmost house in the United States, its cupola rising above a cocoanut palm plantation to look across the southern sea. The young man sat gazing back toward Freda.

Jerry looked at Freda. She was turned away from him, looking toward Duval Street. He caught just an angle of her profile. She was an arresting figure, he admitted. He felt sorry for the young man and a little ashamed for Freda.

Of course that's what Freda thought of his friendship with Pam. That it was just a beach flirtation. That was not flattering to Pam. And he, Jerry, was the cause of it. The knowledge stung him to the quick.

Suddenly Freda seemed to realize Jerry had been silent quite a long time and with a strange, withdrawn tenseness.

"Jerry, what's wrong? What have I said?"

"Probably nothing. Perhaps I'm wrong. But if I am, I can't help it."

"What are you trying to say?" There was a sharp note in her voice.

"Just that you've got me all wrong about Pam, Freda. She's the first thing my life has touched that I've felt was real and permanent, and something I needed."

"Jerry, what do you mean?"

"Just what I've said, Freda."

The girl stared at him for a moment. "And where does that let me off?" she asked in a low tone.

Jerry turned quickly to her. "Do you mind, Freda?" he asked.

"If I thought you meant what you've been saying, I think I would mind."

"But I do mean it."

"Jerry, you can't! You can't! Think what your mother would say. And Lenore."

Jerry stared out to sea. He'd heard very little of what Freda had said. He was wondering what Pam was doing at that moment.

"No, Jerry," Freda said quietly but with decision, "I can't give you up."

PACKERS RIDE CREST IN PRO GRIDIRON LOOP

Green Bay, However, Must Face Champion Chicago Eleven Next Sunday

By Tom Siler

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers, national champions oftener than any other team you can name, are riding the crest of the National league again.

But just how long they can maintain this exalted ranking depends entirely on the powerful and sometimes brutal Chicago Bears, who have been swelling their coffers with exhibition tilts while the others prepared for the title campaign. The Bears begin defense of their championship next Sunday against the fleet Packers at Green Bay. The game has been a sellout for weeks.

On the same day the Washington Redskins, eastern champions, make their seasonal bow against the streamlined New York Giants, now tied with Brooklyn for sectional leadership. These two contests should answer a multitude of questions on the comparative team strength of the four perennial title contenders.

Green Bay's second victory in as many starts was racked up yesterday at Cleveland's expense, the Rams' first loss in three encounters. Holding a slim 7-0 edge going into the final period, the Packers uncorked a sizzling ground attack that netted 17 points and an ultimate 24-7 triumph. Green Bay gained only 46 yards with its usually reliable aerial attack, but rolled up 238 yards on running plays. A sturdy defense limited the Rams to 160 yards on passes and runs.

Clark Hinkle and Joe Laws and Rookie Tony Canadeo accounted for the touchdowns, and another newcomer, Herman Rohrig, split the uprights from the 36 for another three points. The Rams added their seven points late in the game on a 48-yard pass gain from Marty Slovak to Johnny Drake.

Brooklyn, starting the second season under Jock Sutherland, got away victoriously with a 14-7 edge over Detroit. After a scoreless first half, the Dodgers covered 76 yards in eight plays for their first tally. A 73-yard quick kick by Billy Jefferson set the Dodgers back on their 10 shortly afterward. A crushing ground attack placed the ball in scoring position and then Bill Leckonby passed to Ed Rucinski for the counter. Detroit got its first touchdown in two league games when Ned Mathews intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards to score.

Greasy Neale's Philadelphia Eagles reached the .500 mark by whipping Pittsburgh, 10 to 7, on Len Barnum's 43-yard placekick. Lou Tomasetti scored the Eagle touchdown and Boyd Brumbaugh counted for the Steelers.

The three Sunday clashes drew 52,162 customers.

CRACKER SOUTHPAW TO JOIN DODGERS

ATLANTA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Young Bob Chipman, Atlanta's star southpaw, planned to join Brooklyn at Philadelphia today to aid the Dodgers in the last lap of the National League pennant chase.

Atlanta recently sold Chipman and First Baseman Lester Burge to Brooklyn for spring delivery. Atlanta's defeat by Nashville in the Shaughnessy playoff finals made it possible for Chipman to end the season with the Dodgers, although he won't be eligible for the world series.

Chipman won three straight playoff games for Atlanta and lost the final game to Nashville behind the error of a teammate.

PUTS TEETH IN BULLDOG

FLORIDA, STATE TO OPEN RACE

Will Clash In First Southeastern Football Contest This Week

ATLANTA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Coach Tom Lieb will pack up his Florida 'Gators and bus them over to Mississippi State's home grounds this week-end for the first 1941 tussle between two Southeastern conference football foes.

The Floridians, who tested their spurs with a warm-up 26 to 0 win over Randolph-Macon Saturday, have an old score to settle with the stalwarts of Coach Allyn McKeen, a disciple of former Coach Bob Neyland of Tennessee.

The score is last year's—when Mississippi State romped on Florida, 25 to 7.

As to State's chances, Coach McKeen kidded:

"Why quote me? We already are picked for twelfth place in the conference and not even listed in the nation's first hundred teams."

He allowed that the Maroons, who passed up a warm-up game, were coming along satisfactorily "and, barring injuries, we should have an improved team in November."

The Florida team will leave Gainesville Thursday afternoon by bus, stopping over at Columbus, Miss.

The advance ticket sale at State College, Miss., indicates that a near capacity crowd will see the 'Gators and Maroons tangle.

Four intersectional games highlight conference teams during the week-end. Boston College, Sugar Bowl winners over Tennessee last New year's day, journeys to New Orleans to meet Tulane Saturday in the top billing of the day. Holy Cross plays Louisiana State at Baton Rouge, La., Saturday night, while the University of Mississippi meets Georgetown in Washington, D. C., Friday night. Vanderbilt battles Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday.

Kentucky opens the season against Virginia Tech of the Southern conference at Louisville, Ky. Alabama, Auburn and Georgia engage warm-up foes and Tennessee and Georgia Tech are idle.

Tennessee's Volunteers had their goal line crossed as they defeated Furman of the Southern conference, 32 to 6, in opening their 1941 slate Saturday under new Coach John Barnhill. L. S. U. beat Louisiana Tech, 25 to 0, in a warm-up game.

PATIENT'S 'OUCH' ENDED BY DENTIST

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Earl A. Woods, Indianapolis dentist, came forward today with an idea he said practically had eliminated "ouch" from his patients' vocabulary.

Getting ready to drill a tooth, he gives the patient an auxiliary electric switch with which he can turn the drill off if the pain becomes too great.

"The big idea is the psychological effect," he said. "If a patient knows he can stop the drill himself at any time, his fear of it and of pain is lessened considerably."

It seems he and a soldier had decided, in a tavern, to trade garb.

TAKES BID ON PHILS TO NATIONAL PREXY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—John B. Kelly, who heads a syndicate seeking to buy the National League Phillies, has taken his bid for the baseball club to League President Ford Frick.

Kelly, director of civilian physical training under the defense program, disclosed yesterday he had forwarded a copy of the bid to Frick after Gerry Nugent, Phillies president, announced he had rejected the offer.

Declaring he considered the bid "a very generous one," Kelly added "we expect to hear from Frick today and until then we don't consider the matter closed."

Neither Nugent nor Kelly gave details of the offer and Nugent also declined to give his reasons for turning down the offer.

SNEAD CAPTURES HURST TOURNEY; GAINS ON HOGAN

Close Battle For Vardon Cup Between Ace Pro Linksmen Looms

By Dick Cresap

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—If Ben Hogan looked over his shoulder today he might see the specter of a tall, dark man from the mountains who threatens to pry loose his grip on the Vardon cup—symbol of supremacy in professional golf.

FIGURE 56

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The figure 56 means the same to Ben Hogan and Joe DiMaggio.

Hogan, Hershey, Pa., pro golfer, who finished in the money in 56 consecutive tournaments, failed to place in yesterday's Hurst Invitation event.

DiMaggio, the New York Yankees outfielder, hit safely in 56 straight ball games before his streak was broken.

The mountain shooter is Samuel Jackson Snead, the hillbilly now of Hot Springs, Va., who romped off with the $7,500 Hurst invitation tournament yesterday.

P. G. A. Tournament Director Fred Corcoran watched Slammin' Sammy win the 72-hole Hurst with 272—eight under par and nine strokes ahead of his nearest foe—and declared "it looks like it might be Sam's year again."

"Snead has a fine chance of catching Hogan," said Corcoran. "There are six more tournament's this year and the way Sam looked today, he's going to be hard to stop."

Snead's victory boosted his Vardon point total to 404 against 494 for Hogan, who won the cup last year. Hogan took 291, which broke his streak of finishing in the money in 56 consecutive tournaments, but Benny's still leading the year's money winners with $15,983 against Snead's second place $11,498.

Sam opened the Hurst by firing a 64, six under par, for a new course record. He followed this with an unhappy 75, then bounced back on the final 36 holes with sub-par 69-65.

Dick Metz of Chicago, Ill., batted out a 281 for second place and $1,000 and Jimmy Demaret, the Texan playing out of Noroton, Conn., carded 282 for third and $750.

Vic Ghezzi, the national P. G. A. champion from Deal, N. J., and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., shot 284 for $425 each. Former National Open Champions Gene Sarazen, and Byron Nelson, and Billy Burke, Horton Smith of Pinehurst, N. C., and Terl Johnson, Philadelphia, tied at 285 and won $160 each. Bobby Cruickshank, Richmond, Va., and Tony Penna, Dayton, O., trailed for $100 each with 286. Craig Wood, National Open king, was among the also-rans with 287.

Marvin (Bud) Ward, National Amateur champion, led his fellow simonpures with 296, followed by Billy Hyndman, Philadelphia, 302.

WILLIAMS IS STILL IN EXCLUSIVE .400

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Terrific Ted Williams and his big bat kept right on in the exclusive .400 during the week-end.

The mighty Boston Red Sox batsman got only one hit yesterday in three tries, but this one was his 36th homer.

Adding that blow to his "four-for-two" in Saturday's game boosted Ted's average to .406, one point over what it was Friday, and made it appear certain that, barring a major collapse, in the last six games of the season this week, he would be the first four-hundred-hitter in the big leagues since Bill Terry turned the trick in 1930.

At this moment, Ted's batting line for the year looks this way:

G	AB	R	H	2b	3b	HR	RBI	SB	Av
137	434	130	176	30	3	36	118	2	.406

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Monday matinee: Just when you begin to think the Cards might as well cancel that order to print world series tickets, there they come again. . . . It's a cinch now that, no matter who wins, the National League champs won't get to catch a deep breath before the world series. . . . When Johnny Mize was hurt it looked bad for St. Loo, but it looked bad for Mize when Johnny Hopp stole home yesterday, and it must be a swell feeling for any manager to have kids like Stan Musial waiting for a chance to show what they can do when the going gets tough. . . . One look at that 35,909 mob that pursued the Dodgers yesterday and Gerry Nugent decided there might be better things to do with the Phillies than sell 'em. . . . After riding Whirlaway Saturday, Jockey Alf Robertson remarked: "Whirlaway wanted to run and the others either couldn't or wouldn't. I wished that War Relic were in that race." . . . Whatever became of those guys who were touting Furman to upset Tennessee? . . . It would have taken a real hurricane and not a purple one from South Carolina to stop Johnny Butler. . . . Alfred (Yockem) Edwards, the groom who looks after Alsab, thinks the Chicago colt is the best of a lot of good ones he's handled, but racing folks hereabouts say he'll change his mind after that match race with Requested tomorrow.

SATURDAY'S CHILD

All Brooklyn is leffing
About young Paul Scheffing,
Whose homer left the Cards bare.
The Cubs won't promote him
But the Dodgers should vote him
Thanks and a full series share.
S. F., New York.

(Editor's Note: No need to say this contribution arrived before yesterday's doubleheaders.)

SERVICE DEPT.

Private Chuck McCarthy, former Bristol, Conn., press sports editor, announces he'll holler louder than that guy at Camp Wheeler about how good "them bums" are if it will get him a free trip to the world series. . . . Some of the guys maneuvering with Chuck and the 43rd (New England) division in Louisiana are Jack Gallivan, former Fordham footballer, and Technical Sergeant Wardy Gentino, who used to play for Penn. . . . They're too busy to be thinking about football yet. . . . Add the University of Georgia to the colleges who agree that four bits is enough to charge a doughboy to see a football game. . . . Camp Upton and Fort Niagara will start their "army world series" for the second corps area baseball championship next Saturday. The Narragansett Bay team, first corps area champion, already has challenged the winner. . . . Dick Hudson, the big pitcher who won the title for Narragansett, used to belong to the Cardinals. . . . Both of Auburn's 1940 grid captains, Dick McGowen and Ernest Mills, are in training at Fort Sill, Okla., along with a dozen other Auburn athletes of recent vintage.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Mark Daily, Canton, Ill., Daily Ledger: "No one can accuse the White Sox of being mercenary. After tossing aside a good opportunity at grabbing second place money, they seem to be doing their darnedest now at eliminating themselves from third and fourth-place money."

LAST LAUGH

Columnist Jim Schlemmer of the Akron (O.) Beacon-Journal, apologizing for pulling a couple of boners, writes: "If this kind of reporting keeps up, I'll soon be as bad as the Clevelanders who were writing in June and early July to the effect the Indians might win the pennant by 15 games."

MACON TAKES FIRST TILT FROM MOBILE

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Seeking new fields to conquer, Macon and Mobile, South Atlantic and Southeastern League pennant-winners respectively, square off here tonight in round two of their 4-out-of-7 interleague series. The Macon Peaches won the opener here yesterday, 6-2.

The Georgia club combined 5-hit twirling by Belknap and Thorton and a 10-hit attack for their victory over the Shippers, who recently concluded a 7-game sweep of the Southeastern's post-season playoffs. The Peaches were defeated in the Sally League final playoff by Columbia, 4 games to 3.

VOLS CAPTURE OPENING TILT

Nashville Seeks Second Victory Over Rebels In Dixie Series Tonight

DALLAS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Nashville's Vols will shoot another former big leaguer at the Dallas Rebels tonight as the Southern association champions go after their second straight victory in the Dixie series.

Vito Tamulis, who came down from Brooklyn in the last month of the campaign to bolster the Volunteer staff, will square off against Otho Nitcholas, the prematurely-gray veteran whose work was sensational in the Dallas league Shaughnessy playoff.

Nashville clubbed Dallas 6-1 in the opening game last night behind the steady pitching of Roxie Lawson, formerly of the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns.

A big first inning when the Vols exploded for three hits and four runs put the game on ice. The Rebels pecked away but either Lawson set them down in the clinches of a dazzling double-play combination of Dick Culler and Jim Shilling around second base cut short impending rallies.

A crowd of 8,773, with several thousand on the outside of the park looking from a levee or from perches on the fence, turned out for the opening game and another sell-out crowd was anticipated by the club owners tonight.

Dallas sent little Sal Gliatto, 23-game winner over the regular season and in the Shaughnessy play-off, against the slugging Vols but he was ineffective, giving up 13 hits and walking three.

In the series, which will go seven games if that many are needed to decide the championship, the clubs will receive 40 per cent and the players 60 per cent of the gate receipts for the first four tilts, with each league getting ten per cent. After that each league receives ten per cent and the players the remainder, with nothing going to the clubs.

HEINBERG RITES ARE CONDUCTED

Services For Rabbi Held At Temple; Many Pay Last Tribute

An unusually large and representative assemblage gathered at Temple B'Nai Israel, Sunday at 2 p.m., to pay a last tribute to Dr. Israel Heinberg, much beloved Monroe rabbi whose death occurred early Saturday morning.

The floral offerings were numerous and made an elaborate showing in front of the altar and nearly hiding the casket from view.

Rabbi F. K. Hirsch officiated, paying tribute to the memory of Dr. Heinberg in glowing terms.

Following the services, the interment took place in the family burial plot in the Jewish cemetery, with the Mulhearn Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were C. M. Strauss, Bernard Levi, Clarence Marx, Melvin Harrison, L. J. Hart, Joe E. Marx, Edgar Florsheim, Henry Haas, Abe Dryer and Sidney Schmalinski.

Dr. Heinberg, noted linguist, theologian and scholar, was born in Padberg, Germany. At the age of 15 he entered the Marx Haindorf Jewish seminary at Munster and was graduated from that institution four years later. He took a four-year course in Bonn university, following this, and was a classmate and was graduated with the late Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

He became associated with Kahn's International institute for boys in Brussels, where he served as head master for two years, then going to London where he remained for five years and served as private tutor to a number of prominent students, among them being the lad who later became Sir Herbert Samuel.

Dr. Heinberg came to America in 1886 and served as rabbi at Pensacola, Fla., and Alexandria, La., successively. He came to Monroe in the late eighties and was rabbi at Temple Sinai, located on the present site of Hotel Frances, building up a small congregation into a large and substantial one which erected the large temple later at the corner of Jackson and Oak streets.

Dr. Heinberg resigned after 25 years of service and for the past few years has lived in semi-retirement. He was all his life a deep student and broad-minded thinker. He served for some years on the city school board in the days of the Forsythe administration. He was always proud of the fact that he was instrumental in the erection of the Monroe High school building, now the Central Grammar school. It was regarded as the last word in equipment at the time it was built.

Dr. Heinberg leaves his wife, two sons and one daughter, Dr. Bert Heinberg and Harold Heinberg, and Mrs. Sadie Abramson, all of Monroe; and a sister, Mrs. Charles Geismar, of Memphis, Tenn.

Heavy mill liquidation and hedge selling depressed prices at the opening and continued to counteract trade buying, commission house and local support.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The stock market exhibited further shockproof tendencies today and, in the face of deteriorating war news, most leaders managed to maintain their balance.

The list, hesitant at the start, picked up an assortment of plus signs as the session progressed. Top marks were trimmed at the close and negligible declines were seen here and there.

Dealings were sluggish from the opening on but several sizable blocks of low-priced stocks put the 5-hour turnover at around 450,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Leading stocks displayed resistant trends in today's market despite the general lack of bidding incentives.

The proceedings were sluggish from the opening on but, near the fourth hour, modest upward shifts were present in most sections. Numerous issues held at Saturday's final levels or were a shade in arrears.

Brokers continued to blame speculative inidifference mainly on the bearish turn taken by German-Russian war developments.

Bonds and commodities were spotty throughout.

LAKE CHARLES, La., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The men who convert harmless looking objects into deadly cargoes of aerial bombs take their work seriously—even in rehearsal.

They are members of a bomb service crew being trained at the air base here during the Louisiana army maneuvers to rush bombs from hidden dumps, fin and fuse them and load them to planes.

Similar crews are training at other bases.

"I would rather handle bombs any day," one officer said, "than try to drive through traffic on Fifth avenue in New York. Reasonable care is all that's needed."

The men are rehearsing their jobs daily with "reasonable care" even though their practice bombs are only shells loaded with sand instead of T. N. T. The weights, however, are equivalent.

Bomb dumps are favorite targets of enemy aviation and must be concealed some distance from an air base. As an added precaution against attack from the sky, the service crew has camouflaged its dump in a nest of oak trees one mile from the Lake Charles air base.

The crew is training with shells ranging in weight from 100 to 1,000 pounds. The army uses no bombs over 2,000 pounds. When ordered the crew must deliver a specified number of bombs to the air base by a certain time. They carry their load in trucks which must not travel faster than 10 miles an hour. They clock themselves on the time it takes to deliver their load.

At the flying field, the service crew puts metal fins on the bombs to stabilize them in their downward flight and then places fuses in the tail and nose. The fuses are used to set off the bombs.

The service crew never needs to worry about carting unused bombs back to their hidden dump after a bombing mission. Returning bombers never land with a load of live bombs but jettison them somewhere before landing at their base.

Lisbon shook with one of the worst earthquakes of history on November 1, 1755, when 30,000 people were killed by a shock that lasted only three minutes.

HENS EXPECTED TO HIKE OUTPUT

Already Working Overtime To Help Feed Britain And U. S.

By William Lochner

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The nation's hens—already working overtime to help feed Great Britain as well as America's growing appetite—will have to increase their production in the last four months of 1941 to meet the government's expectations of this year's output of some forty-four billion eggs.

According to the bureau of agricultural economics, production during the first eight months this year totaled 30,242,000,000 eggs, which was about 1,400,000,000 below the output for the same period in 1930 when a record 39,067,000,000 eggs were laid.

On the basis of a government-estimated 44,112,000,000 eggs for 1941, the chickens still would have to produce about 13,900,000,000 eggs from September 1 to January 1, or about 3,470,000,000 each of three months.

Poultry experts, however, said today they believed production for the last four months of 1941 would approximate 10,000,000,000 eggs, which would bring the year's total four million under the government's prediction.

Government marketing forecasters might see their mark reached if the country's millions of biddies reversed their natural habits in the fall and early winter, the season when their laying power normally decreases, reaching a low about December.

The estimated 249,470,000 layers on farms on September 1 will be augmented during the autumn months by between 8 to 10 per cent with 9 per cent of the larger crop of pullets joining to help attain the forty-four billion goal.

But the experts believe the added forces will not bring the expected production. The average output for each hen in the last four months of 1941 would have to be 12 3-4 eggs, whereas in August the average was 12 1-4 eggs. In December, 1940, production per hen dropped to a low of 6.15 eggs, which, however, was better than the 10-year average, 1930-1939.

ENGINE NARROWLY MISSES PLUNGING

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A near catastrophe was averted yesterday when the engineer of a Chicago and Alton railroad passenger train stopped the locomotive after it had gone nearly half its length beyond an open railroad bridge across the Chicago river.

The engine was brought to a stop hanging perilously over the water, its small front wheels and first large drive wheels beyond the rail ends. The bridge had been opened to permit a freight boat to pass.

Four sleeping cars on the train, the midnight special to St. Louis, were taken back to the union station and the passengers continued their trip after the rails were cleared. No one was injured.

There have been numerous calls for extension class in Spanish, social sciences, and commerce. Classes can be formed with as few as eight enrolled, it is stated. Any who wish to enter such study courses can do so by arranging through the office of Dean C. C. Colvert of Northeast Junior college.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

The Russian position is increasingly grave, but not one to cause the Muscovites to despair.

So long as morale—not only military but civilian—holds good and loyal, the Bolshevists ought to be able with the aid of the winter weather to establish themselves ultimately on a line of defense which they can maintain. This would mean a continuation next spring of the war which Hitler is straining every nerve to liquidate now.

But further heavy withdrawals of Red troops must be expected. This is especially true in the crucial battle of the Ukraine, where the Nazis continue to batter their way forward.

The outcome of this bloody engagement will influence the whole course of the war. Hitler's objective is the Caucasus: storehouse of the oil which he needs—gateway to the middle east—and Russia's lifeline to the Persian gulf and supplies from the outside world, including America.

The Nazi chief is sacrificing lives and materials on a colossal scale in his effort to reach this goal. If he can make the grade, he will be in a much better position to carry on a long war. If he fails, he will face a critical situation in the spring.

The Bolshevists under Marshal Budyenny, the old Cossack cavalry man, have been defending this territory inch by inch. The fighting is terrific and in many instances has reverted to hand-to-hand conflict with bayonets, such as reported from Odessa.

If all that was necessary to halt this rush was courage and willingness to die, it would have been stopped, but the indications are that the Reds are suffering from a great shortage of supplies and equipment. In particular do they need tanks and warplanes, without which they cannot stand up against the Nazi avalanche.

The Nazis claim to have reached the Sea of Azov and cut the Crimea off entirely from the mainland. This peninsula, on which lies the naval base of Sebastopol, is the main seat of Russian naval power in the Black sea. Were it incapacitated it would be a grave threat to Soviet control of this vital inland water.

I have indicated previously the German strategy in this drive, but it is worth emphasizing in view of its great importance. If you will look at your maps you will see that Hitler is trying to move his armies eastward through the sector north of the Sea of Azov, so that he can turn southward into the Caucasus.

Meanwhile, the Nazis have collected naval vessels in Bulgarian ports with the idea of driving across the Black sea and making a landing in the Caucasus so as to cooperate with the German forces of the north. At the same time it is said that Berlin is putting heavy pressure on Turkey to grant the axis passage of Italian warships and supply vessels through the Dardanelles to participate in this great operation.

The indications are that Turkey will have to decide in the immediate future whether she is going to cast her lot with Germany or with England. Probably the course of the fast-moving Ukraine battle will have much to do with her decision.

Bulgaria is going through all the gestures suggestive of active participation in the war, with an attack on Turkey. King Boris is reported to be en route to consult Hitler. The Turks have a hard choice to make.

The Bolshevists presumably have prepared positions to which they can fall back gradually in the Donets basin, and still farther back along the Don river which lies across the entrance to the Caucasus. Predictions as to whether they can stand the Nazis off are futile, since we don't know the extent of the admittedly grave shortage of equipment.

If the Russians cannot stem the rush to the Caucasus, they still may be able to form a line along the Volga and thus continue the war next spring.

MYRON C. TAYLOR EN ROUTE TO U. S.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican, left Rome today en route to the United States.

He had a farewell audience with Pope Pius XII yesterday at which, informed sources said, the pontiff gave him a letter to be delivered to the president.

The letter was in answer to a message which Taylor brought from the president, these sources declared.

They expressed belief the exchange consisted mainly of expressions of friendship and respect and of desire for collaboration in attaining one another's aims and the end of the war.

Taylor, accompanied by his wife, took a morning plane for Lisbon. During his 12-day stay here he had had three long audiences with the pope—the last about 50 minutes—and several conferences with Vatican diplomats.

It was announced that the Taylors had given the pope the villa in Florence where they had lived off and on for 15 years, and that the pontiff had assigned it at their request to the Rosary college of River Forest, Ill., for an art school.

The Taylors will retain a small adjacent villa for their own use.

SUMMER OFFICIALLY WILL END TUESDAY

At 4:33 a.m. Tuesday, the sun will go south for the winter. Old Sol will wind up his summer business in the northern hemisphere, pack up his best samples of scorching temperatures, leaving behind the sere and yellow season of pumpkins and shocks in the field, the season that poets call the rich maturity of the year.

Old Man Sol's journey southward will be slow but steady. Autumn will be ushered in to Monroe and it is expected that cooler days and nights will result.

Most people believe that the equinox falls on September 22. It varies because no one has invented a calendar that exactly fits. Equinoctial storms are expected at this time of the year but weather bureau authorities state that these appear not more often than one year in seven at this time.

OLD SOURCE OF IRON VALUABLE

Discovered 51 Years Ago, Now Gives World Greatest Supply

By Arnold Pearson and Jay Vessels

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 22.—(News-Star Special News Service)—Two World Special News Service)—Two rugged brothers braved Arctic conditions 51 years ago in then trackless northern Minnesota to discover what now has become the world's greatest source of iron ore, backbone of America's arsenal of democracy.

It was the Mesabi iron range that Leonidas and Alfred Merritt found, and began developing in 1891. The range this year will be the key factor in Minnesota's record production of 60,000,000 tons of precious steel ingredients.

Under unprecedented wartime pressure, men are calmly carrying on from where the Merritts first started on a wheelbarrow basis.

It's all brainwork and little muscle power, so simple has the tremendous task become.

Mere men operate towering machinery that skims the earth, trees and boulders from the top of ore beds, exposing the indispensable mineral and creating open pit mines from which most of the ore is taken.

Huge power shovels scoop up 15 tons at a bite, placing the iron direct into deep dump cars. Sixteen-wheel locomotives, pulling 180 cars at a time, haul the mineral to head of the lakes ports, 90 miles away.

There, on long, steel docks mere man again manipulates mighty gadgets, pouring the ore direct into 500-foot long freighters, loading 10,000 tons in a few hours.

The source of supply now seems endless and, resounding to the clank of heavy powered machines in a sort of boom echo, are several mines once destined to become "ghosts" of better mining days.

Readjustment of state royalty taxes and the urgent demand for ore, as well as modern equipment have revived the properties.

So the romance of prospecting continues, though Minnesota's iron range is pock-marked with the canyons dug in man's quest for iron. Scientists armed with new type state leases are prospecting for and investigating the possibilities of taconite—skim milk of iron mining.

Millions upon millions of tons of taconite, iron bearing rock that covers so much of the iron country, are pushed aside and heaped in "lean ore" piles as richer veins are sought.

Eastern steel company representatives and local experts are striving to develop a suitable process to perform what nature failed to do—separate silica and other foreign material from the iron.

When a paying method for extracting the iron is found—and mining men are certain a way will be found—processing plants likely will be set up at mine sites to make use of a heretofore discarded bulk.

On a basis of an estimated three tons of taconite to make one ton of high grade ore, mining experts figure about 50,000,000,000 tons of high grade ore could be obtained from Minnesota's taconite deposits, mostly still in the earth.

But the highgrade stuff is holding out and giant locomotives laboring with record trains of ore cars, snort and puff toward Duluth and Superior docks where activity also is at fever pitch in a race against time.

For after winter seals the lakes and halts shipping, the iron ore industry is stalled so far as the Minnesota source is concerned. Moving the heavy ore by rail is not practicable because of freight costs.

Thus the efforts of men who risked death to find the priceless northland ore beds will be matched within a few weeks by other courageous persons. They will risk their lives against the challenge of early winter storms to push extra cargoes through to lower Great Lakes ports and their steel mills.

The demand is so great that long after insurance is refused because of the tremendous seasonal hazards, skippers and crews will carry on. Shipping men rate Great Lakes late fall gales as particularly violent, and limited boundaries preclude "running out" storms.

They refer to deaths of 60 men in the Armistice day blizzard last year. Most of them perished when two ore freighters were smashed in Lake Michigan. Two were lost when a pulpwood carrier broke up.

At peak period now, the thunder of ore chutes connecting dump cars with freighter chasms roars a symphony of music for man's genius in utilizing nature's gifts for urgent needs.

The mantle of red ore dust drapes the docks and nearby landscape as a visible reminder of an industry that may decide the fate of nations.
